Simon-Kucher

Re: Experienced Consultant – Americas

Dear Simon-Kucher North America Talent Acquisition Team,

I am excited to apply for an Experienced Consultant position at Simon-Kucher in Toronto. I am a driven, collaborative, creative and analytical problem solver with experience working in intense team environments as a member of the Argentina Men's National Ice Hockey Team.

As evidence of these attributes, I recently graduated with a Bachelor of Commerce degree from Queen's University where I achieved a 3.74 GPA while co-founding and leading a sports management consulting club and committing 20+ hours per week to playing competitive hockey.

I'm confident I can bring the following skills to Simon-Kucher's team:

Analytical problem-solving. As a Brand Management Associate leading Heinz Mayonnaise, I identified a gap in our portfolio as we didn't have a product above the 675mL size. Among other challenger brands, 90% of sales are in 750mL+ formats and 75% of sales are in 890mL jars. And with 45% of total mayonnaise sales in the 890mL format, I'm leading an 890mL jar line extension set to launch in Q1 2027, taking Heinz Mayonnaise from -65% net margin to +10% net margin within 1 year.

Collaboration and teaming. As a Marketing Innovation Analyst, I developed a 3+ year flavor innovation strategy for a $150M brand. I collaborated with a team of 10+ business and technical Managers, each bringing valuable cross-functional perspectives, to create a business case and commercialization strategy. On a 1.5-month accelerated timeline, I presented our strategy to the President of Canada and VPs of Canadian Sales and Marketing, gaining strategic alignment to advance to product development.

Proactivity and drive. Recognizing a lack of opportunities to combine my passions for sports and business at Queen's, I co-founded Queen's Sports Management (QSM). I gained experience in entrepreneurship and sports management consulting, developing skills ranging from strategy definition and stakeholder management to building a 37-person organization and directly leading 8 Analysts. Ultimately, I successfully ratified QSM as a club, ensuring its ongoing operations.

My motivation to join Simon-Kucher is threefold. First, after speaking to Sanjana Sen, Lucky Tozana, and Kevin Seibel, I was impressed by the entrepreneurial spirit fostered at Simon-Kucher and the opportunity for even junior employees to take ownership of projects, workstreams, and new initiatives.

Second, Simon-Kucher's focus on driving top-line growth for clients through pricing optimization and strategic marketing and innovation aligns seamlessly with my experiences in Revenue Management, Brand Management, and Marketing Innovation at Kraft Heinz.

Third, gaining exposure to Kellogg's network and reflecting on my career experiences to date, I've realized I want to work in a dynamic and fast-paced environment, which Simon-Kucher provides. I'm excited to work on complex, ambiguous challenges to unlock organizational growth for clients, such as helping a two-sided holiday rental business grow revenue 22% per property by creating a dynamic tool to price in accordance with seasonal demand trends while maximizing occupancy rates.

I believe my unique perspective, coupled with my skills and knowledge, would be a strong asset to the role. I appreciate your time and consideration and look forward to discussing how I can add value to Simon-Kucher.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Chubbs
